RETURNS ON SPECIAL BOND ELECTION.

The vote in the special $20,000.00 bond election held Saturday, Feb. 29, 1936, was much larger than might have been expected from the seeming lack of interest up to the day of election. They lost in the other sixteen boxes, the Haas box casting a solid vote against the bonds.

TO THE PEOPLE OF HONDO—A WORD FROM BROTHER MERRILL.

Mr. Editor: On the occasion of my moving from Hondo, I feel an urge to say a few words to the general public. A little more than five years ago, I came here at the earnest solicitation of the little Baptist church. We were living happily in San Antonio at the time, but I wanted to do all the good possible, as a Minister of Jesus Christ, before my call up Higher. I have labored in all sincerity, and all things considered—have met with remarkable success. Seventy-five new names have been added to our church roll. The Bible school has been about doubled; and I have rendered a very successful service to our Mexican friends. We have had some rifts of these people to unite in a Baptist church. They have a Bible school. No one should think it strange that I have been called on to suffer some ugly persecution. Every true preacher has thus to suffer. Since the days of Judas Iscariot, when Jesus was betrayed, this has been so, and will be so; in all denominational life, Judas was ignorant and selfish, and dishonest; and such people seek membership in churches, where they may practice their hypocrisy, and put on a show of their importance. No one should think this strange. But it does seem unfortunate that honest, self-sacrificing people should have to suffer. But, what I want most to say, Mr. Editor, is: I desire to thank the community in general for their kindness to us. Words of deep friendship, love and appreciation have come to us from all walks in Hondo—excepting, of course, the liquor dealers. All denominations and those of no denomination have spoken kind words which cheer our hearts. So very many, too, have given us loving attentions which we will not soon forget. Life's dearest and most valuable possessions are true friends. Every shepherd has the wolf to contend with; every true preacher must be annoyed by the hypocrite. But, let this fact lead no one to discredit Christ. Christ is the sinner's one and only hope. No counterfeit coin ever destroys one's confidence in true money. My love, Mr. Editor, to the people of Hondo. This means everyone—the Mexican, the Negro, the German, the Jew, one and all—may God bless you.

A NEWSPAPER MAN'S ESTIMATE OF JOE CALDWELL.

By Byron C. Utecht, Austin Correspondent.

Austin, Texas, Feb. 29.—One of the outstanding leaders of the Forty-fourth Legislature, Joe Caldwell, Asherton, has decided to throw his sombrero into the ring once more and run for re-election to the House, despite needed attention to law practice and a ranch. Caldwell's record in the House is unusual, where 181 representatives vie with each other on legislative problems.

Caldwell won out on practically everything in which he was active, although unfortunately the daily papers carry only a few surface happenings of events in the legislature. It was due to Caldwell's initiative and work that the gigantic pipe line gas bill was defeated, a measure that called for $60,000,000 of government funds for the sole purpose of sending Texas gas to Detroit and St. Louis, where consumers would get it at much less than Texas consumers. Also it would be setting up government in private business, at the expense of the taxpayer, who alone foots an government bill. So Caldwell led the fight to defeat this measure and won.

Realizing what it all meant, Caldwell got in communication with Harold Ickes, secretary of the Interior, learning from him that Texas "ambassadors" in Washington had not filed any formal application and had not asked to the President about the proposition, although members of the legislature favoring the bill claimed this had been done. Caldwell, having an obsession for truth and facts, wanted to know, and had direct word from the White House as well as from Ickes, that they had not even given consideration to the gigantic tax-eating project. So, when those favoring the bill for the $60,000,000 expenditure found Caldwell armed with facts direct from Washington, they were nonplussed to say the least, and anyway the bill was dead from that day on.

Caldwell was the only member in the entire legislature who went to the trouble to find out the facts from Washington on a $60,000,000 expenditure, and had he not done so the bill may have carried, regardless of the expense to Texans.

On all taxation problems before the legislature, Caldwell was regarded as a fair-minded conservative. He did not want to destroy Texas industries, knowing they supported payrolls. And at the same time he was in favor of any fair and adequate plan for paying old age pensions and remedying the deficit. As a member of the committee on revenue and taxation, Caldwell was one of the dependable. He was neither too conservative nor too radical, and all of the 21 members agreed on this, together with Representative Walter E. Jones, who is chairman.

HONDO METHODIST CHURCH.

Shan M. Hull, Pastor.

The time for the beginning of our Revival Meeting is near at hand. We are planning to begin our meeting the third Sunday in March, which is the 15th, and continue through the fifth Sunday.

Rev. J. L. Bryant, who has been one of our successful Conference Evangelists for a number of years, and who is now pastor of the Pearsall Methodist Church, will assist the pastor in this meeting. The pastor has been associated with Rev. Bryant on two previous occasions and found him a very effective man in a Revival Meeting.

Brethren, if the meeting is what we need, and what we are hoping for, it will not be because of the efforts put forth by the pastor and the Evangelist, but because of the most hearty and prayerful cooperation on the part of the church membership. Your pastor covets your most earnest prayers and cooperation, most especially during our evangelistic campaign.

There is no doubt but that the final outcome of this Conference two structures which will house the greatest stock show the United States has seen. The two buildings, the construction cost close to $400,000 will contain an ultra-modern veterinary hospital servative nor too radical, and all of the 21 members agreed on this, together with Representative Walter E. Jones, who is chairman.

Caldwell took a prominent and active part in the liquor legislation, a liberal and siding with the new view of conditions. He was against the open saloon and intemperance, but was for orderly conduct of this business as well as orderly conduct of government.

Some members love to hear the sound of their own voices before the microphone but Caldwell spoke only when he had a message to deliver, and therefore carried weight. He fought single shot tax bills, knowing it would not meet the needs of government and at the same time cripple industries whose payrolls were needed by the common people.

But the remarkable feature of Caldwell's record is that, despite the fact that he took an outstanding part in major legislation, he retained his popularity with all groups and all factions. Everybody in the house, and this should include state officials, regarded him as a friend as well as a diplomatic and well informed legislator, one of those who was needed in the legislature.

Caldwell was one of the supporters of Coke K. Stevenson, who was elected for a second term as speaker. Believing in Stevenson's ability and fairness Caldwell threw his strength to him, but asked no favors. He was one of the outstanding independents among the 181 members sharing their respect for his courage, combined with modesty. Members came into Austin daily and inquire about him, hoping that he will come back to the Forty-fifth. Without such types of Texas manhood in the legislature, there would be no use having a legislature as all would be rubber stamps. But not Joe Caldwell. He fought for his county and state and with a self sacrificing courage that will not be forgotten. It was state welfare and common welfare and principles that Caldwell placed before vote getting, which has become, alas, almost extinct.

Caldwell, as a young man and with his record, is declared by many members and citizens as well as correspondents for Texas leading dailies, to be in line for the governorship whenever he chooses to run, for he has those qualities which Texans admire, loyalty to friends, loyalty to principle, love of justice and freedom of thought.

There are not many members who have much influence in the legislature, for so much depends upon a member's friendship and sportsmanship, but Caldwell has these in large quantities, and any of the 181 members will vouch for this.

year's work will depend largely on the success or failure of our Meeting; so let's all get in under the load, put our shoulders to the wheel, and pray much, and attend every service possible, that God will give Hondo a most gracious outpouring of His Holy Spirit.

The Methodist Church extends a most cordial invitation to all Christian people of Hondo and vicinity to join them in their special evangelistic efforts. "Come Thou With Us, We'll Do Thee Good."

The Uvalde District Conference has been changed from Pearsall to Uvalde, and will be held April 20-22. Rev. J. Grady Timmons, pastor of the Travis Park Methodist Church, will be the inspirational speaker for the Conference.

FIRE PREVENTION MEETING.

Everybody interested in the fire company is invited to attend a meeting at the courthouse Wednesday night, March 11th, to help reorganize our Volunteer Fire Department. When you hear the fire whistle Wednesday night, March 11th, come to the courthouse. FIRE CHIEF.

QUIHI NOTES.

Fear not, Gen. 21:17.

Poor Hagar, she needed encouragement through that angel voice. She was a benighted heathen, a "bondswoman, perhaps of mediocre intelligence, little schooling, limited experience hardly versed with things in nature or the ways of the world and now torn loose from her wanted surroundings where a skillful hand had managed her affairs, let alone the calamitous plight she is in, a dying child and no remedy, death staring in her own face, and her exhausted, unnerfed condition making her see hobgoblins, the desert-spooks, all around her. Little wonder that she quaked with fear. Of course, times have changed and we are towering sky-high above the woeful ignorance about the dark and barbarous days when the fear-complex was uppermost, due to the innermost makeup of things around us. Since then we have studied hard with eye and instruments and machinery, we have penetrated the very entrails of nature by the most complicated and accurately registering scientific apparatus, exploring the sky and the earth and the firmament and the deep sea, and, most of all, the inner crevices of human heart and mind and soul, forcing and forestalling every possible dangerous bent; besides we have closely calculated how to use our available resources, pooling our common interests, and distributing the advantages to high and low without reserve, so that we now, after years of strenuous effort, have a well-ordered and well-regulated international social level where everybody is happy and the word Fear can safely be scratched from the dictionary. Is that so? So "it cannot happen here" or anywhere anymore that people wince and shrink and tremble like aspen leaves, frightened out of their wits, their blood running cold, afraid of their own shadow, not daring to call their soul their own? No longer any fear of tomorrow, of blind alleys, misguided leaders, entangling policies, world-wide complications? No longer any fear because of a godless course, hidden sins, a searching God impending death and a final account? Hagar, our modern fears are greater than yours. We need more than that angel's voice, we need Him who, in the world ye shall have tribulation (and the corresponding fears); but be of good cheer; I have overcome the world.

To all appearances, our community is climbing a rung higher on the ladder of civilization. The Public Service Co. is planning to service us with electric light, and the call meeting has decided in favor of it. It means good-bye to our Delco plant which has been bought with great and noble sacrifice, doing fine work and illuminating many a fine festive occasion, but the new arrangement is no backward step, we hope.

The birds are twittering and caroling the advent of Spring. Hope it's not a false note, and may departing winter take along all his bag and baggage of flu, sore throats, coughs, sneezes and what have you? Yea, nearly everybody has something he is glad to part with. And may it not forget the painful eye-inflammation of Mr. Jacob Oefinger that has laid this busy man up for some time. Cheer up, the Lord is with you.

The Sunday School teachers will meet next Friday. And do not forget the weekly Lenten services on Wednesday at 8 P. M. That's not ancient history but of vital importance and benefit today.

Here is Passion divine and human; here is grace in contrast to sin; good against evil; Satan's destructive and rebellious will against God's saving will; night and darkness against day and light.

THREE GUARDIANS OF LIBERTY.

Following the decision of the United States Supreme Court on the NRA, there was a lot of political talk about amending the Constitution, limiting the powers of the Court and denying it the right to reverse an act of Congress.

Such proposals shocked the public, for every United States citizen who thinks back to his school days knows that our Constitution was drawn with the idea of forever preventing any department of the government, any public official or any group of public officials from gaining dictatorial powers, under stress of circumstances, that could limit or destroy the rights and liberties of the people as provided by the Constitution, which might be said to be written in the blood of our forefathers.

Therefore, this nation was provided with a Legislative, an Executive and a Judicial branch of government, and the United States Supreme Court stands as the final arbiter in all controversies affecting the people's rights. Its honesty and integrity have never been questioned. It is above politics and mob hysteria. Financial considerations do not affect its judges. It is a thing apart from the bickering of different factions and it stands as sacred as the Constitution itself. Without it there would be no Constitution left and no stability of government. Is it any wonder that proposals to tamper with it or the Constitution, in order to give more opportunity for hasty Congressional action, struck the nation with a shock?

Next to the Constitution, the daily and weekly press of the 48 states is liberty's greatest safeguard. Almost unanimously, it has stood behind the decisions of the United States Supreme Court and expressed itself as against any tampering with the Constitution which would weaken its fundamental principles.

Our people can be thankful for three things as their greatest guarantees of liberty and continuity of orderly government: First, the Constitution; second, the United States Supreme Court; and third, an uncensored and free press. Neither one of the three could stand without the other two, and the people could never be sure of their liberty without the protection of all three.—Industrial News Review.

PAYING WITH YOUR MONEY.

In commenting on the growth of government bureaus and the tendency of officeholders to assume a paternalistic attitude toward the taxpayer, Frank D. Fitzgerald, Governor of Michigan, said, in recounting his experience in seeking a share of Federal relief funds to aid in building an addition to the largest state hospital in Michigan:

"A young official from Washington recently sat in my office and told me the state would have to conform to certain rules and regulations concerning a public project, 'Or else,' he said, 'we won't be able to grant you any of OUR money.' 'Our money' is what he said. Well, I told that young man he better go back to Washington and find out whose money he was talking about. In that instance, he was talking about money belonging to the people of Michigan, money the people of Michigan were rightfully entitled to use for the benefit of their state.

"That's the attitude which I deplore—this tendency to count the taxpayer out of the game immediately after he has thrown his chips into the pot.

"It's the taxpayer's fault in a way. He has permitted government bureaus and government services to pile up on one another until there's no way of making head or tail out of the tangle. When the structure of government is stripped down to its natural size again, when its fancy trimmings and unnecessary annexes have been removed, the taxpayer is going to regain sight of his dollars—not until then. Once he gets a glimpse of them, he's likely to take a greater interest in the manner in which they are handled."—Industrial News Review.

Mrs. J. P. Jackson returned to her home in Wortham Wednesday after a visit of several months with her daughter, Mrs. S. B. McClesky, near Yancey. J. P. Stubbs of Wortham, who also had visited at the Stubbs Ranch, returned home with Mrs. Jackson.

ANOTHER ANGEL NEEDED.

(A Tribute to Alice Newton.)

Another angel was needed To brighten God's mansions above Our earnest prayers were not heeded To keep her here for us to love.

No life has ever given more, To all with whom she chanced to meet She gave a smile, that all adore, She was so loving, kind and sweet.

Her friends were legion, none can tell The scope of so brilliant a mind. To know her was to love her well. She was so cultured and refined.

Hew many, many girls and boys She taught, gave them their start in school

Not just in books, but all life's joys, In loving deeds and Golden Rule.

Her work was left unfinished here, But God has work in heaven too. She went to Him without a fear To do the work none else can do.

We have not said to her, "Goodbye," Someday we'll meet again we know, Up there in that realm home on high, Whenever God calls us to go.

The report that the Federal government is planning to establish a branch of the Federal penitentiary system in Southwest Texas created considerable street talk in Hondo during the week, and the Directors of the Hondo Chamber of Commerce took steps to investigate the matter with a view to its possible location here. It was found that the government investigator had already visited this section and returned to Washington, so we are informed, and it is not known what if any further steps are planned.

The clouds turned loose their pent-up store of moisture Sunday night and Monday and poured their blessing of a gentle rain upon the thirsty earth. Reports indicate that the rain was general over Southwest Texas, varying in quantity from more than two inches locally to a mere sprinkle in some places. A more timely rain could scarcely have fallen, as planting time is here and the top soil needed moisture. In most places the rain penetrated to the subsoil moisture and planting conditions are as fine as ever prevailed in this section.

Hon. Joe Caldwell, Representative in the Legislature from this 77th district, was in Hondo Wednesday from his home in Asherton. Mr. Caldwell announces for re-election and feels that he justly merits the Democratic custom of a second term. Mr. Caldwell was fortunate in securing some very important committee assignments and was one of the busiest and most useful Representatives in the several sessions held by the Legislature. He has been too busy to cover the entire district up to the present, but feels encouraged over his prospects for re-election.

RURAL INTERSCHOLASTIC LEAGUE MEET.

All rural schools, who are entering the Rural Meet, March 20 and 21, should send in their entry blanks at least one week before the meet.

The rural schools who are teaching only seven grades should indicate on their entry blanks if only seven grades are being taught in their schools, since the county is authorized to constitute a separate class for such in awarding all-around championship if there are as many as four schools entered in that class. These schools will compete with other rural schools, and points won in that competition will be totaled toward the all-around championship of the seventh grade schools.

Those contestants who are entering the Rural Pentathlon are not eligible to enter any other form of track or field competition.

Sandwiches, cake, pie, and drinks will be sold on the school campus, but no regular dinners will be served.

All contestants are urged to be at hand at the time the events are scheduled to take place, as all contests will start promptly at that time.

THE EDITOR'S TURN-ROW

The prompt renewal of your subscription is greatly appreciated, and helps us carry on. Look up the blank on second page and use it so as best to tickle our appreciation. If all would follow the suggestion therein FARMING would soon cover America with its message of hope for a profitable agriculture.

—oOo—

Editor Briggs of Farm and Ranch says "that just as soon as adjustment programs do not prove profitable, farmers will demand their cancellation". Neither Mr. Briggs nor the farmers for whom he speaks should lose sight of the fact that any "profit" that comes to the farmer through a processing tax doled out to him in payment for reducing production is an extra cost levied on the consumers of his goods for which the consumer receives nothing save the privilege of being his customer. Like a two-edged knife, it is cutting down the volume of the farmer's production on the one hand and reducing the volume of purchase of his customers on the other and sooner or later must fall before the inexorable law of diminishing returns. The sooner it is "cancelled" and each farmer becomes again his own "adjuster" the better for agriculture as a whole.

—oOo—

FARMING pointed out many moons ago, with the suggestion that the Captain of our Ship of State might well emulate his example, that when a storm portends at sea the wise mariner, instead of unfurling new canvas to the rising breeze and striking out on new and uncharted seas, reefed his sails, threw overboard his excessive cargo and steered his course by the old and proven landmarks. The alacrity with which President Roosevelt dumped into the discard along with the AAA several of its companion pieces of legislative folly, and the apparent earnestness with which he has turned from wasteful spending to thoughts of economy seem to indicate that the wisdom of the suggestion has somehow soaked into his comprehension. If he has the courage to continue his course and the skill not to be diverted therefrom, there may be hopes yet for safe landings.

—oOo—

The frenzied efforts in Congress to formulate a substitute for the late unlamented AAA that will subvert the law and achieve by circumvention what has been denied on direct approach is a sad commentary on the statesmanship of that body. Even so, the simplest among them should know that should they find a means of subsidizing a controlled production of staple farm products, they would immediately have to provide a similar service for the distributors so as to assure to all the handlers—from the trucker who hauls the produce from the farm to the retailer who sells the finished product to the ultimate consumer—a profit that will keep them in the business of distribution. And after all this is done, the success or failure of their efforts will depend upon the ability and willingness of the consumer to buy. Prices, with their profits or losses to both producer and distributor, must rise or fall with the buying power of the consumer. Such a gigantic scheme of government control of private business and the living habits of the people almost staggers the imagination. And this is not to take into consideration what the freaks of varying seasons might do to upset the scheme however well organized.

A PERTINENT OBSERVATION.

In an editorial discussion of the Supreme Court's sweeping decision invalidating the AAA act, the San Angelo Evening Standard closes with the following pertinent observation:

"However, the decision casts tremendous doubt about some other legislation, and thereby adds to perpetuation of the confusion that surrounds it. THIS POINTS TO THE POTENT NEED OF DETERMINING WITH CONGRESSIONAL PASSAGE THE CONSTITUTIONALITY OF LEGISLATION. Could some way be devised to expedite a court ruling at the time of legislative enactment, it would save resulting confusion of adverse decisions, two or four years in the future."

That the thousands who have been illegally mulcted of millions of dollars in such unlawful schemes as NRA administration assessments, AAA processing taxes, etc., that are now unrecoverable, will agree with Standard's conclusion goes without saying—and rightly so.

But why throw the burden on the courts?

Why not elect legislators—national and state—who will have sufficient respect for their oath to support and uphold the constitution to at least reasonably satisfy themselves of the constitutionality of their acts before enacting their measures?

The people have the right to—and should—demand no less of their delegated law-makers.

Why not elect executives who will have enough respect for their sworn duty to the Constitution to refrain from recommending enactment of legislation "regardless of any reasonable doubts entertained as to its unconstitutionality"?

Law-makers and law-enforcers should set the pace in respect for the law.

When they do their duty there will be fewer burdens for the courts to carry.

We submit that the contention that there should be a quicker, more certain and less expensive method of court procedure for determining the constitutionality of an act of Congress than now exists is a timely and pertinent one.

But let us begin where the evil first lies.

Let's not throw the whole burden on the courts.

DO YOU WISH TO INVITE THIS?

"BERLIN, Dec. 21.—(INS)—Possibility of a peasant revolt against the nazi regime was seen today in an admission by the official German news agency that the dairy association has been forced to ask the dread government secret police to "take action against the peasants' passive resistance."

This was the first official admission that the peasants may have fallen out with the nazi regime.

Gen. Hermann Wilhelm Goering who heads the secret police, announced he has ordered his men to "crush ruthlessly the SABOTAGE AGAINST FEEDING THE NATION".

THE FARMERS ARE DISSATISFIED WITH THE DRASTIC STATE REGULATIONS FORCING THEM TO DELIVER THEIR DAIRY PRODUCTS TO STATE AGENCIES AT FIXED PRICES."

The above press dispatch speaks for itself and should serve as a warning to American farmers.

The same authority that levies a processing tax against your customers to "shower you with the gentle rain of government checks" CAN AND WILL FORCE YOU TO DELIVER if and when the tables are turned.

Every assault upon the liberties of another endangers your own!

THE LAND IS THE BACKBONE.

Fletcher's State Rights Farming, published at Hondo, is a real farm paper, and the following from last issue will prove of general interest:

In these uncertain times, when wise men are puzzled to know which way to attempt to proceed, it is well to remember that no farm ever failed by making itself self-sustaining. Plan first to produce as nearly as possible everything needed on the farm and other things will be easier of attainment.

The above sizes up the situation to a gnat's heel. The land is the real backbone of the country, and when intelligently tilled, is bound to prove profitable.—Fred B. Robinson in Waco News Tribune.

TO SKIN GOING AND COMING.

What will doubtless be the Republican's position on the much talked of AAA scheme to regiment and socialize American Agriculture was probably voiced by David Lawrence when he wrote:

"Amendment of the AAA to provide for the unrestricted production of farm commodities and for cooperative disposal of exports at a price below the domestic level so that America may meet world competition in surplus is a pre-requisite to any sound agricultural policy."

The attitude is entirely consistent with the advocacy of a protective tariff.

Having skinned the consumers of one class of produce by making them pay a premium for home goods equal to the tariff that kept foreign-made goods out of the country, until foreign markets for our goods are all but destroyed, they very logically propose to mulct the consumers of another class of produce for a sufficient amount to offset the losses sustained on goods sold to foreigners at a less price than charged to the home consumer.

Such altruistic guardianship of the welfare of the American consumer is quite overwhelming!

One wonders, with this constant skinning of the consumer both going and coming, how long before he will be past growing any new skin of which to be "skunt"!

—oOo—

There is approval from certain commercial agencies, and some professional economists who seem to take their cue from their financial masters, of the government's reduction of its cotton loans from twelve cents to ten cents per pound. The plea is that the former loan figure, being above the world market price, destroyed the export cotton market. Well, what if it did? Doesn't the protective tariff destroy the world's market in the United States, thereby enabling the tariff beneficiaries to demand and receive a price above the world price? If the government is to play financial nursemaid to both classes and be fair it will have to assure the farmer average cost of production plus a profit on his cotton and take the lid off of production. The way to do this is to lend the farmer SUCH AN AMOUNT, regardless of world prices for the staple, and take care of its loss out of the national treasury until such time as the world price can be lifted to the level of American cost of production. Less than that will disappoint the farmer because it will leave him still in a losing business, and inevitably fail of its own inherent weakness. Why beat about the bush or resort to dishonest subterfuges? Or why paternalism for any class in the first place?

—oOo—

For every proposal that would partially restore to a people's government its constitutional prerogative of issuing the country's credit currency there is a howl from certain quarters about the dangers of "inflation with printing press money". It is thus they erect a scarecrow to frighten the timid and unthinking away from contemplating the evils of deflation of the volume of ready cash and inflation of bonded debts while they sap the country's credit with their interest takings and tax evasions.

SUPREMACY.

"Old-L" tossed a challenge, the hills almost shook
As defiantly onward he faced toward the brook;
The bulge in his neck and his powerful frame
Spoke evil for any disputing his claim.

He was lord of the hills, he had ruled with his might
He had tasted of victory in many a fight;
Boss of the range, he was monarch, supreme.
The gore of a rival was his happy dream.

But soon from the canon, deep-throated there came
A fierce conflagration of bellowing flame,
A new gladiator disputing the claim
Of Old-L: defying his battle-serred frame.

They met on a "lick" with a dynamite rush,
Hurling bunches of turf far outside in the brush;
Plowed the ground in their fury, each putting his trust
In the skill of his fencing—a death-dealing thrust.

With herculean strength Old-L was lifted and thrown
With his legs dangling, helpless, above the big roan;
The monarch who'd ruled with arrogance and pride
Fell to earth with two dagger-sharp thorns in his side.

This fight I compare to the old parties, grand,
Who fail to give heed to the cry of our land;
To youth who is girded with sinews to fight
For justice and mercy—humantiy's right.

THE DREAM.

A dream come true—Texas—
mighty Lone Star State—many flags had waved over its mighty space
before its centennial year;
great men had trudged

And wrote their names in history.

A hundred years from now joined in one thought

A great nation—a dream come true!

BIRDS OF PASSAGE.

The Southern song birds seem to feel
The coming of the Fall;
In all their thrilling rippling notes
I sense a lonesome call.

They know the Winter drear and cold,
The snow will soon be here;
While lonely through the wood they flit,
They chirp it seems, in fear.

They soon will go and I shall be Without a cheerful song.
Life will be dreary, this I know,
And I just drudge along.

But what of weary boys who drift
Without a mother's care;
Who tread Life's chill and dismal way
And wander everywhere?

Just like the birds they rove about
Without a roof or bed;
Oh, help the tramping youth today
And give him more than bread.

So open wide your heart, your door,
As Christian souls should do;
God's mercy will in course of time
Bring recompense to you.

BABEL.

The tribes, on Shinar gathered,
wrought with zeal.
"We build" they said, "a tower strong and high
To symbolize our compact, and to seal
Our friendship lest we separate and die."

They trusted in the thing their hands had made To bind their union, but confusion born
Of selfishness their undertaking stayed,
And held their league of nations up to scorn.

And shall we dare, while human greed yet lives,
To hope that we shall prosper where they failed?

The same distrust that rose at Babel gives
The lie to peace pacts. Although partly veiled,
The treacheries of selfish men remain
Intrenched today as once on Shinar's plain.

COULD WE GO BACK.

Could we go back and start the years
anew
I wonder what the most of us would
do,
I think I'd take the time along the way
To smile and have a cheerful word to say.

Could we go back and live the years again
I'd try to make amends for all the pain
And soothe the little hurts unknowingly
I might have brought to those who care for me.

Could we go back again and choose the road
I would not shun the hardships and the load
But I would know Life's splendor day by day
And stop to smell the roses along the way.

Could we go back to where the old years lead
I'd try to be more kind in word and deed
There are so many things I'd like to do

Could we go back and start the years
anew.

ARE YOU DISCOURAGED?

Lincoln was blessed with much good nature, for when he failed with legislature, he entered business, but "no luck"; spent seventeen years a
"paying buck" on debts his worthless partner had, which must have made him very sad.

But soon he fell in love, they say,
though death soon took his girl away;
then politics took all his mind and Congress was not far behind. But bad luck came in full array, defeating him again that day.

He tried U. S. Land Office door, and failed again. Oh, yes, there's more: He soon became a candidate for Senate and again they state how bad he failed; it seemed his luck but then, he had a lot of pluck.

In fifty-six, he tried again, Vice Presidency to attain; as usual, he had no luck, but once again he showed his pluck, in fifty-eight he tried once more but Douglas beat him, to that door.

At last, you know, he freed the slave, became OUR PRESIDENT, to save our country from an "awful mess", you surely will at last confess that when you contemplate his fight, your troubles will seem very light.

THE CYCLE.

The sun, a golden disk, is slowly
sinking in the west,
And lo! the day is done.
An all-pervading peace and tranquility fills my breast,
Because of battles won.
With calm I look toward the morrow
I may never know,
For it may not arrive.
If not, I pray this peace accompany me as I go
That I may joy derive.

Day again finds me restless, mind
steadily whirling,
Ready for the mad fray.
Every nerve steeled, muscles tense,
blood giddily stirring
To make each moment pay.
The day's battles won or lost, again
I seek my rest, sweet.
The Even softly draws nigh.
The sun, with its majestic splendor,
in quiet retreat
Bows low to velvet Night.

—ANGIE ANDERSON.

MORNING WELCOME.

As he whistles in the frosty dawn,
I watch a farmer go
From house to barn. His overshoes
"Critch, crunch" on powdered snow.

Still whistling, he swings aside
The icy feed lot gate;
Then vanishes inside the barn
Where nickered welcomes wait.

—FRANK A. LYDIC.

THE SEASONS.

Spring is here again when small boys
launch gaudy kites into the air;
Summer with the cicada's strident
call to his lady so fair.
Fall has arrived when foliage changes from green to flame and gold;
Winter with the wild geese wending their way south to avoid the cold.

—ANGIE ANDERSON.

SACRIFICE.

Because I found the worth of life
Complete within self-sacrifice,
I gladly give myself, nor ask
A recompense for Duty's task.

—N. H. DUNNING.

PRELUDE TO SPRING.

There is little or naught
To sing about,
Now that the ground is white,
And all but the wind is still.
Branches unbending
Stiff with cold,
Resisting
The touch of the wind
Searching, searching for song!
Gone caprice
And rhapsody,
Gone from the leafless trees.
Only a sad moan
The wind must make
The whole day long.

Little or naught
To sing about,
Now that winter is here
None but the wind
Is heard in song,
Muted, low—
Prelude to Spring.

DEVINE NEWSLETS.

From The Devine News.

COMMISSIONERS COURT MEETS IN DEVINE.

County Judge R. J. Noonan and Commissioners Bader, Bippert and Tondre, met here Friday with Commissioner Roberson to pass upon settlement started by Mr. Roberson, regarding right-of-way for Highways Nos. 2 and 173. As a result most of the differences in regard to damages allowed through the city of Devine, were ironed out. Judge Noonan told The News man that Highway Commissioner Martin has assured him that the two highways thru this section would be built; No. 2 real soon and No. 173 some time this year; and told him to go ahead securing concessions and deeds for lands effected by the two highways. Mr. Roberson said he has been assured that contracts will be let soon for No. 2 from Lytle to Natalia and for the underpass and the City, are slated for the first work to be let. We understand that the Atascosa county commissioners' court has likewise visited Lytle and effected a promise by which the highway might get through that town; though Commissioner Whitted complained of having little or no funds to meet at $2,500 damage incurred in the town of Lytle.

DRYS WIN VICTORY IN TUESDAY'S ELECTION.

A total of 561 votes were polled Tuesday, out of a possible 700 voters in Justice Precinct No. 5, which is composed of Devine, Natalia, Black Creek and Shook (last named not a voting precinct); the drys winning a distinct victory in a majority of 51 votes; over-riding the attempt of the wets to run in between fifty and a hundred Mexican votes, and all the sympathetic help they had from county-seat wets, and other outside influences. The vote, as reported late Tuesday evening at the close of polls was:

	wet	dry
West Devine	113	175
East Devine	73	64
Natalia	59	36
Black Creek	10	31

West Devine polled pretty near full strength, with a 62 dry majority; the Mexicans vote on East side, usually dry, gave the wets 9 majority; Natalia voted only 96 out of a possible 200, showing that only half a vote was registered; Black Creek voted 41 out of a total of 44 poll taxes said, giving the drys 21 majority.

Sheriff Chas. J. Schuehle spent a part of Friday in Devine. Coming down with the commissioners' court. The Sheriff says he has been having a lot of trouble with young boys tramping or riding through on trains. Was just back from a trip to El Paso where he got some boys charged with robbing a box car, in Hondo, a few days ago.

DOCTORS KNOW

Mothers read this:

A cleansing dose today; a smaller quantity tomorrow; less each time, until bowels need no help at all.

Why do people come home from a hospital with bowels working like a well-regulated watch?

The answer is simple, and it's the answer to all your bowel worries if you will only realize it: many doctors and hospitals use a liquid laxative.

If you knew what a doctor knows, you would use only the liquid form. A liquid can always be taken in gradually reduced doses. Reduced dosage is the secret of any real relief from constipation.

Ask a doctor about this. Ask your druggist how very popular liquid laxatives have become. They give the right kind of help, and right amount of help. The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It contains senna and cascara — both natural laxatives that can form no habit, even in children. So, try Syrup Pepsin. You just take regulated doses till Nature restores regularity.

HER VIEWPOINT.

On his tour of an English district, an inspector of city high schools came before a class of girls. He wrote on the blackboard "LXXX". Then, peering over at a good-looking girl in the first row, he said:

Do You Ever Wonder

Whether the "Pain" Remedy You Use is SAFE?

Ask Your Doctor and Find Out

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

THE person to ask whether the preparation you or your family are taking for the relief of headaches is SAFE to use regularly is your family doctor. Ask him particularly about GENUINE BAYER ASPIRIN. He will tell you that before the discovery of Bayer Aspirin most "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as bad for the stomach and often, for the heart. Which is food for thought if you seek quick, safe relief.

Scientists rate Bayer Aspirin among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and the pains of rheumatism, neuritis and neuralgia. And the experience of millions of users has proved it safe for the average person to use regularly. In your own interest remember this.

You can get Genuine Bayer Aspirin at any drug store — simply by asking for it by its full name, BAYER ASPIRIN. Make it a point to do this — and see that you get what you want.

"G-MEN" CURRENT FILM.
Jimmy Cagney, now appearing in "G-Men" at the Colonial Theatre, last seen on Broadway in "Penny Arden" with Joan Blondell. That was more than five years ago and William Keighley was the director and producer. During its run on Broadway,
"G-Men" purchased it, at the time signing Cagney and Miss Blondell to appear in the film version of the play. Keighley chose to recast the New York. Both Cagney and Blondell subsequently rose to stardom at the Warner Bros. studio.
Several months ago the same studio engaged Keighley as a director for "G-Men" set at Warner Bros.
and Keighley were together for the first time in five years, as star and Keighley as director of the picture.
"G-Men" is a stirring story of the struggle of Government men against the gangsters of the country. The all-star cast is headed by Cagney and Joan Blondell, Margaret Lindsay, Ann Dvorak, Robert Armstrong and others.
"G-MEN" HAS NARROW ESCAPE
WHEN CRAZED STEER
CHARGES HIM.
A. Rothe, prominent Medina ranchman, had a narrow escape last week on his ranch northwest of Hondo. While driving through a field, he noticed a big year-old steer, apparently very wild, which jumped to its hooves and charged. Rothe fell flat to the ground and the big steer dashed toward him, leaving two small wounds on the side of his head.
Rothe quickly reached the safety of his car. A few hours later the steer was found dead, and the condition to rabies or possibly to this section.

Wild persimmon, crepe myrtle, huajilla, agave, and amou river privet have been used by Mrs. William Jaschke of Bee county in making a screen planting for her home. Mrs. Jaschke has spent two years on her yard improvement work and during this time she has made a permanent foundation planting, a senisa hedge, a native screen planting and a rose garden. She started a grass lawn, but this was killed by the dry weather. She plans to plant a lawn of carpet grass during the fall rainy season, to add a walk in back of the house, to add native shade trees and to plant more rose bushes in her rose garden. Mrs. Jaschke says that her shrubs have never been watered and even during the dry, hot summer. She removes all the black tight soil and puts in creek soil and leaf mold which she says retains moisture longer.

A trench silo has recently been dug and filled by Hubert and Harold Kiker, Childress county 4-H club boys, to hold feed for their own cows. Hubert is 12 and Harold is 10 years old. Ajax grown by the boys was put into the silo. It was cut with a sled cutter which they made, hauled in by themselves, and put into the trench silo under the supervision of V. E. Hafner, county agricultural agent. The silo, which is four feet wide at the bottom, six feet wide at the top, four feet deep, and 25 feet long, holds six tons of feed.

Three acres of land planted to tomatoes brought $312 to Ed Peek, Red River county farmer, and to date he has sold $343 worth of fall beans from the same ground. This makes a total sale of $657 worth of tomatoes and beans, and Peek is still harvesting beans. The total expense to date on the three acres has been $150, leaving a net profit of $500 on the three acres.

A slow, soaking rain, amounting to two inches, fell here Monday. Corn planting which had been delayed on account of the dryness of the ground will now start in earnest as soon as the ground gets dry enough to get into the fields. Oats, which had begun to suffer will now go a long way. The rain was also very beneficial to the pastures.

In the play-ground bond election held Saturday 256 votes were cast against and 14 for. Riomedina voted 69 against and 3 for and over the entire County the bonds were defeated 2 to 1. Our Commissioner's Precinct No. 2, gave more than 400 majority against the bonds.

THOSE TENNIS RACKETS.

The correct dates are :
March 20—Junior Tennis.
March 21—Senior Tennis and Playground Ball.
March 27—Literary Events.
March 28—Junior and Senior Track and Volley Ball.

Why Gulf is the Gas for March

"Kept in Step with the Calendar"

THAT GOOD GULF GASOLINE

MARCH MEANS WINDS to most folks. But March brings higher temperatures, too. Average temperatures are up 5 to 13 degrees over February. If a gasoline isn't made to suit the season, you don't get the best mileage. Try That Good Gulf—it's refined to give you top mileage now. Because Gulf is "Kept in Step with the Calendar," all of it goes to work ... none of it goes to waste!
